Washington, Aug. 13 .- Speaker Crisp is a busy man these days. He is expected to complete the list of House Committees within the next fortnight, and within the same period the Committee on Rules, of which he is chairman, must consider and agree upon such changes in the rules of the House of Representatives as it may desire to recommend for adoption. The committees will not be announced until the rules have been adopted, inasmuch as one of the changes proposed is to increase the membership of several of the standing committees as heretofore indi-cated in these dispatches. The task of commit-fought on the Confederate side, denounce the enforcetee making, always a difficult and perplexing one, will be unusually difficult this year, on account of the increase in the membership of the House, as well as because there is to be a redistribution of some of the more important chairnanships. It is also to be noted that the last Congress elections resulted in the return of several strong men of experience who had been received from $6 to $5 a month. They are nearly out of Congress for several years, and the assignal to old to work. EQUALLY RETUENT ABOUT HIS REFUSAL TO AC-CEPT A RECEPTION IN HIS HONOR FROM THE MANHATTAN CLUB BECAUSE F. R. COUDERT IS PRESI-DENT OF IT.

Senator Edward Murphy, Jr., was in the city yesterday on his way back to Washington. He expected to take a train for the National Capital this morning. When seen at the Hoffman House last evening he reticent on the subject of Senator Hill's purpose to nominate Ispac H. Maynard for Judge of the Court of Appeals, and preferred not to express any opinion regarding Mr. Hall's unheralded visit to "Boss" Me noon. Other Democrats discussed the Hill-Mc-Laughlin conference with zest, and the belief was frequently expressed that the trip to Greenport in-Laughlin at Greenport, L. L. on Saturday after dicated unusual interest on Mr. Hill's side, and meant that the Senator was prepared to offer large inducpotentate in the next Democratic state Convention.

Mr. Murphy's refleence extended also to the interesting piece of inside history which crept out of the Manhattan Club's portals the other day showing the strained relations which exist between Frederic R. Condert and the machine Democracy and bringing into fresh prominence the fathere of President Cleve land to recognize Mr. Condert's services in the way all his friends expected by appointing him Am-bassador to France. This disclosure showed that, hesides suffering from the coldness and neglect of the President, who had been so signally benefited by Mr. Condert's courageous advocacy, bestowed at a critical time, Mr. Condert had known also the litterness and entment of the men of the machine whom he had offended when he championed Mr. Cleveland's cause.

CAUSES THAT HAVE LED TO THIS SEASON'S FAILURE.

NEXT YEAR THE TRACK MAY BE IN BETTER HANDS-THE REDUCTION OF PURSES AT THE FALL MEETINGS.

The end of the Monmouth Park meeting is near and it will go on record as a failure. The meeting should have excelled all others in the history of the association. The managers blundered from the start by giving a forty-six days' meeting and conflicting with Brighton Beach for the first thirty days. The second blunder was to reverse the order of racing, by giving races that were made to suit the idiosynerace of certain horses that would not run true unless they raced the reverse way of the track. The third blunder was in making co-ditions for races, which a majority of owners and trainers said openly were made to suit horses in certain stables. The fourth blunder was made when the managers ruled turf writers off for criticising the racing and the management. The make-up of the Executive Committee was another thing that hurt the meeting. Nothing but failure could result with such men in centrol.

The attendance does not increase, no matter how brilliant the card may seem to be. On Saturdays there is a holiday crowd from the beaches, but the average is thousands less than last year. The an-nouncement that the purses were to be reduced at the fall meetings did not please the horsemen. Some of them tried to induce other owners not to enter their horses at meetings where the purses were re-duced. Some of the tracks made a lot of money at

It was declared to be certain death to know his whereabouts, and not give him up. It was under such circumstances and to escape such a hunt that Victoria took to the mount-sins, and from this time until 1821, when the cause of independence revived under Itarbide, he lived slone and unattended in the solltudes of the Sierras. For thirty months he did not see a human being or taste brend. In the summer he lived upon fruits, and in the winter upon roots and whatever else he could find. He was glad even to gnaw the bones of dead beasts. The clothing which he had on him when he disappeared was all torn to rags, and nothing was left but a single cotton wrapper which he had somewhere found. And yet he would not submit. The troops that were sent to bent him became tired of the fruitless quest and reported him dead, and so he was believed to be, by friend and foe alke. The last person he parted with when he disappeared into the widerness was a faithful Indian, who said to him as he went away: "If tulnes change and you can come back safely, where shall I find you?" and Victoria pointed to a high mountain dimly outlined in the distance, "You will find me or my bones somewhere on that mountain." Five years after that the cause which had been so dear to Victoria's heart was triumphant, and list faithful Indian set out to find his friend. He scarched all over the mountain, and was about to give any in deepair when he saw a footprint of a man of earth. He knew it to be the footprint of a man of earth. He knew it to be the footprint of a man of several days till his stock of provisions was nearly exhausted, and then went back for a fresh supply, leaving, however, as a sign to Victoria if he should cose that way and would return again. He waited several days till his stock of provisions was nearly exhausted, and then went back for a fresh supply, leaving, however, as a sign to Victoria if he should cose that way, a few tortilas hung up by a string over the path.

Any child takes these tiny, sugar-coated Pellets readily. They're put up in little sealed vials, and thus kept always reliable, while they can easily be carried in the vest-pocket. Nothing else at any price is as cheap, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned. You pay only for the good you get.

No substitute that a tricky dealer is ready to urge, though it may be better for him to sell, can be "just as good" for you to buy.

A short time afterward Guadalupe returned and found the tortillas. He had not tasted food for four days. He was so famished that he devoured them before he thought why they were there. Then he reasened that it maus be either the signal of a triend or the ambush of a fee. He would hide and wait. The Indian soon came back. Guadalupe presented himself but was not recognized. His beard and his hair had been growing for four years. He had on him no clothing excep

Before the sermon Mr. Moody said: "We have never had a programme of each day's work, because I feel sure if we had one we should break it. But next year, if I live, I want to take up each day one of the fundamental doctrines of Christianity, such as repentance, justification, etc. I propose to get the best authority on each subject, and give the whole day to the study of each of these great SOME OF MR.
